Foster Parents as Recruiters Program
Step-by-Step Guide
Foster Parents as Recruiters Program

This brief guide describes the Foster Parents as Recruiters program, explains the step-by-step process counties and agencies can take to use the program, and includes sample contract and billing documents.

The Foster Parents as Recruiters program incorporates the idea that foster parents are the best recruiters and are valuable partners with local districts and voluntary agencies in planning and implementing recruitment and retention activities. Requests to utilize the program are submitted by a local social services district (LDSS) or voluntary agency to the OCFS Regional Office. Once the request is approved by the regional office, it is submitted to the OCFS training office for review and approval. Upon approval an OCFS contractor, for example Welfare Research, Inc. (WRI), prepares a consultant contract for the recruiter. The contract typically is written for $495.00 @ $15.00 per hour, about 33 hours (not including mileage claimed). The foster parent recruiter submits invoices to WRI for payment.

Step-By-Step Process

LDSS or Voluntary Agency

A LDSS or voluntary agency determines which recruitment and retention activities a foster parent could assist with, and identifies a valued foster parent for this role. Both currently and formerly certified foster parents are viable candidates for this role, as are older foster youth. The county or agency presents their plans and goals for the recruiter in a short narrative called a Scope of Services to their ROPA (Regional Office Project Associate).

See attached Sample Scope of Services (Addendum A).

Regional Office

The ROPA writes a request for the services of the consultant and submits it to the OCFS training office. If a proposed Foster Parent does not have a readily available resume, the regional office can describe the foster parent's background in the ‘Provider Justification’ section of the Request Form instead: <Proposed Foster Parent Recruiter> has been a foster parent for <number of> years at <name of agency or local district>.

OCFS and WRI

The OCFS training office approves the request, or follows up to obtain clarification as needed about the request. Once approved, OCFS sends the Request Form to WRI describing the proposed services by the Foster Parent as Recruiter consultant that includes approval signatures by OCFS Training and the appropriate regional office director. A LDSS or voluntary agency contact is included for WRI to contact for billing verification.

WRI develops a consultant contract and sends it to the Foster Parent Recruiter for signature, along with consultant billing forms, a Form W-9, a non-disclosure agreement and mileage expense forms. Note: If an older foster youth is the consultant, then the contract is with the agency, and the agency pays the child the consultant payment.

See attached Sample Welcome Memo and Consultant Contract.

Foster Parent Recruiter

Upon completion of the agreed upon work, the Foster Parent Recruiter submits the Consultant Billing Form with the tasks performed and dates of tasks, and expense forms for mileage. The consultant may invoice WRI monthly, bi-monthly, or even a one-time bill at the end of the contract period. The contractor follows up with the LDSS or voluntary agency contact for verification of work completed, and then the recruiter receives payment.
